Workshop title	Synopsis	Presenter (s)	Room
Morning
Thinking about future generations in a world of uncertainty	Colleagues from the Future Generations Commission join us to reflect on the Act, its impact to date and what the future holds for public service delivery against an ever increasing uncertain landscape.	Petranka Malcheva	Room A
Role of Finance Officer in Achieving Net Zero	Colleagues from across Audit Wales, Welsh Local Government Association and the Welsh Energy Service team will provide their perspectives and views on the preparedness for net zero across the public sector and what does it mean for you as a finance professional.	Chris Pugh / Sian Davies / Rhys Horan / Jane Forshaw / Victoria Camp / Kate Havard / Jenny Lloyd	Room B
Senedd Reform – proposals, risks and opportunities	An introduction to the Senedd Reform proposals, including a description of the different actors involved, and a high-level timeline.	Alun Davidson	Room C

	The session will encourage participants to think about the risks and opportunities associated with the proposals, and the implications that might arise for their organisations from the proposed reforms.
A perfect storm: challenges and opportunities for public finances and services	What does the big picture mean in practice for citizens, service users and communities and the role of finance professionals in the future?	Mark Jeffs / Chris Bolton / Auriol Miller / Andrew Jeffreys / Jarlath Costello	Room L
Fraud and deceit are clamouring for your Money	Specialist police financial crime investigators will give an overview of the fraud and economic crime landscape in relation to accountancy professionals, what do you need to be aware of and how to ensure you and your organisation doesn't become a statistic.	Mark Egan / Peter Matthews	Room K

Afternoon
What does it take to become a leader?	Anne-Louise Clark will facilitate a discussion by some of the top leaders from across the Welsh public sector on their career journey and what top tips they have for our future finance leaders.	Tim Moss / Rhys Thomas / Anne-Louise Clark	Room A
The importance of ethics for finance professionals in the public sector	Oliver Simms of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of England and Wales will lead an interactive workshop on ethics for public sector finance professionals. The session will cover what it means to be ethical and how to deal with tricky ethical issues, including an opportunity to discuss specific public sector case studies and what action they would take.	Oliver Simms	Room B
How do you eat an elephant? The bite-sized approach to growing your emotional intelligence	A fast-paced and fun tour of the 4 stages of Emotional Intelligence – the session will showcase one valuable idea per	Andy Pope	Room L stage with an exercise, brainstorm. The 4 stages are: • Super-specific Feedback • Create good habits • Benefits of questions and listening • What makes a good team player?'

Learning to love the F word (Failure).	Failure is a word that stimulates many emotions. It drives success but it can also lead to people sweeping things under the carpet. This session will unpick some of our reactions and what you can do to love the F word and use it to drive learning and success. The details of what Chris will be covering are available in an Academi publication: Taking Risks – how to make it safe to fail.	Chris Bolton	Room K

Motivational speaker
How to ensure you and your team achieve greatness	Description Jeff discusses how working in a team, and still taking extreme ownership, has taken him to the top of the world, and awarded him successes that no one can achieve alone. Key Lessons How to create a balanced team, and develop it to maximise its potential. Identifying blockages caused by negative culture and how to rebuild foundations for growth. Advice for Team Leaders to become more confident, focused and positive. Together Everyone Achieves More.	Jeff Smith	Assembly Hall

	Outcome Attendees will learn how to hold their teams and themselves accountable, and act collectively, and more galvanised.		